Market Commentary

Q4-2025 Market Review

Q4 2025 Market Review US equity markets concluded the fourth quarter of 2025 with modest gains, as the S&P 500 index rose by +2.00%. This performance was primarily driven by strong contributions from Healthcare (+8.8%), Materials (+4.5%), and Financials (+3.2%), indicating broad economic resilience and a rotation into more cyclical and defensive sectors. Meanwhile, sectors like Real Estate (-3.1%) and Consumer Discretionary (-1.6%) faced headwinds, reflecting ongoing sensitivity to economic shifts. Internationally, the MSCI EAFE index significantly outperformed, advancing +5.0%, while the Federal Reserve maintained a stable interest rate policy throughout the period, fostering a predictable macroeconomic environment.

Portfolio Impact

Portfolio Impact During Q4 2025, your portfolio generated a return of +1.12%, resulting in an alpha of -0.88% or 88 basis points relative to the S&P 500 benchmark. This underperformance was primarily attributable to specific technology holdings; while Alphabet (GOOGL) delivered an exceptional +28.8% return and Apple (AAPL) rose +6.2%, significant declines in Microsoft (MSFT) at -8.8% and Meta Platforms (META) at -9.3% weighed on overall performance. Our fixed income allocation contributed positively, with the Aggregate Bond index returning +0.7% and High Yield bonds gaining +1.1%, providing ballast during a period of equity volatility within certain segments.

Outlook & Positioning

Outlook & Positioning Looking ahead to 2026, we anticipate continued economic expansion, albeit with potential for moderating growth rates as the full impact of prior monetary policy adjustments continues to unfold. The Federal Reserve is expected to remain data-dependent, with current projections suggesting a potential for one to two interest rate adjustments throughout the year, contingent on inflation trends and labor market data. Our portfolio remains strategically positioned towards high-quality equities with strong balance sheets and sustainable earnings growth, complemented by a diversified fixed income allocation with strategic duration management. We also maintain a 5% cash position to provide liquidity and optionality for opportunistic investments, with our next portfolio rebalancing scheduled for the end of Q1 2026.

Financial Planning Notes

Planning Recommendations

David's retirement projections remain strong, indicating he is well on track to meet his financial independence goals. Our current analysis shows a healthy surplus, providing a comfortable buffer against market fluctuations. To sustain this positive trajectory, we recommend maintaining your current contribution levels to all retirement accounts. We will also conduct a thorough portfolio review next quarter to identify any rebalancing needs and ensure optimal asset allocation.

2026 Action Items

- Fund 2026 Roth IRA contributions for both spouses (up to $7,000 each) as early as possible in January to maximize tax-free compounding.
- Review beneficiary designations on all retirement accounts and life insurance policies.
- Confirm withholding elections are appropriate following the 2025 tax return.

Next Review

Your next scheduled quarterly review meeting is tentatively set for mid-June 2026.

Important Disclosures

Past Performance. Past performance is not indicative of future results. All investments involve risk, including the possible loss of principal. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's account, when liquidated, may be worth more or less than originally invested.

Performance Reporting. Performance is presented net of advisory fees and is calculated using a time-weighted return methodology. Returns for periods greater than one year are annualized. Benchmark returns are for the S&P 500 Total Return Index, which is unmanaged, does not incur fees, and is not available for direct investment.

Benchmark. The S&P 500 is provided for general comparative purposes only and may not represent the specific investment objectives, risks, or fees associated with the client's portfolio.

Advisory Fees. Wealth Management Firm charges an annual advisory fee on assets under management, billed quarterly. Fees are debited directly from client accounts and are reflected in the net-of-fee performance figures presented in this report.
